SENATE GENERAL ELECTION CANDIDATES INDEX

The Senate General Election Candidates Index includes all candidates appearing in Chapter 26, “Senate General Election Returns, 1913–2008.” The index includes candidates’ names followed by state abbreviations and the years of candidacy. To locate a candidate’s returns, turn to pages 1434–1471 where the returns are arranged alphabetically by state and in chronological order by class of senator for each state. (See “Senate’s Three Classes,” p. 1393; box, State Abbreviations, this page.) For other references to Senate candidates in the Guide to U. S. Elections, Sixth Edition, see the General Index, pages I-227 to I-307.

SENATE PRIMARY CANDIDATES INDEX

The Senate Primary Candidates Index includes all candidates appearing in Chapter 27, “Senate Primary Election Returns, 1920–2008.” The index includes candidates’ names followed by state abbreviations and the years of candidacy. To locate a candidate’s returns, turn to pages 1474–1553 where the returns are arranged alphabetically by state and in chronological order by class of senator for each state. (See “Senate’s Three Classes,” p. 1393; box, State Abbreviations, this page.) For other references to Senate candidates in the Guide to U. S. Elections, Sixth Edition, see the General Index, pages I-227 to I-307.

The Gubernatorial Primary Candidates Index includes all candidates appearing in Chapter 31, “Gubernatorial Primary Election Returns, 1919–2008.” The index includes candidates’ names followed by state abbreviations and the years of candidacy. (See box, State Abbreviations, this page.) To locate a candidate’s returns, turn to pages 1662 to 1732 where the returns are arranged alphabetically by state and in chronological order of election for each state. For other references to gubernatorial candidates in the Guide to U. S. Elections, Sixth Edition, see the General Index, pages I-227 to I-307.
